Aardvark

schleich WILD LIFE Aardvark:

When it's not burrowing in the African savanna, the schleich® aardvark can be found napping all day and staying up waaaaaaaay past bedtime at night. Known to seek shelter in tiny pockets. Loves termites and starring in kids' wildlife playtime stories.

The Aardvark is at home in the African savannah and looks more like a rabbit with its long ears, but that's where all the similarities end. Instead of carrots, it prefers to eat ants. With its long snout, it cleverly sniffs out insects living underground and digs them up in no time at all. It's especially active at night. Who will stay awake long enough to keep the Aardvark company?
